Shells Raze Jap Steel Plant

By LEIF ERICKSON

GUAM, July 14 (AP)–The U. S. Third Fle et, bombarding Japan for the first time, set great fires raging through a steel city on northern H onshu today as 1000 of its carrier planes blasted near-by targets of the northern home islands in coordinated blows.

The guns of the newest battleships, cruisers and destroyers wiped out the Imperial Iron and Steel Works rolling mill at Kamaishi—275 miles north of Tokyo—and fierce fires raged through adjacent coke ovens.

Adm. Nimitz, announcing in a special communique that the bombardment thundered on for two hours, reported that the entire area was covered by dense smoke clouds that rose thousands of feet above the city.

The Third Fleet poured a hurricane of 5 to 16-inch shells into the city before retiring.

The bombardment force, commanded by R. Adm. J. F. Shafroth of Denver, apparently did not meet any Jap opposition. In his report to Adm. Nimitz, Shafroth did not mention opposition by shore batteries or planes. His announcement the shelling continued for two hours indicates, also, the results were closely observed by slow flying observation plans from cruisers and battleships.

Close observation would have been required for the admiral to report, without qualification, that the imperial iron and steel works rolling mill was "demolished."

The fact that the powerful American force fired upon Kamaishi for two hours suggests the ships were able to close within the 10-mile range of five-inch guns on the screening destroyers and in secondary battleship and cruiser batteries.

The latest communique was the fourth issued by Adm. Nimitz today, a record number.

The Imperial Iron and Steel Works mill was supplied with coal from the neighboring island of Hokkaido which was attacked by the carrier planes.

The coal is transported across Tsugaru strait in ships and rail ferries which were hammered throughout the day by Avengers, Helldivers, Corsairs and Hellcats.

The Japanese Domei agency reported that some Superfortresses participated in the air raids, which had lasted for seven hours, and added that at present there was no indication pointing to enemy plans to undertake landing operations in this part of the Japanese mainland.)

Thus did Adm. Halsey carry war relentlessly home to Japan, defying what is left of the enemy fleet and seeking out the hoarded air force which Nippon is saving against the day of invasion.

American naval power was embarked upon its next to last job of this war using its guns and planes to strike at the core of Japan's war industry and paralyzing the enemy's air strength.

The final job will be to support invasion, wherever it may come.

Associated Press War Correspondent James Lindsley with Halsey's Fleet disclosed that the marauding forces of speedy battle wagons had been hugging Japanese waters ever since its planes pounced on Tokyo's guardian ring of air fields earlier in the week.

While the northern island of Hokkaido has many air fields, few planes usually are believed based on that fog-shrouded part of the homeland.

The bombardment of the Japanese shore demonstrated American mastery of the seas along Japan's vulnerable eastern coast.

Far to the south are the major Japanese naval bases of Kobe, Yokohama and Kure, from which what is left of the enemy's navy might sally out—if it dared—to try to intercept the Third Fleet.

A surprise strike by more than 1000 carrier planes at Hokkaido and northern Honshu—first aerial blow of the war at northern Japan—and a toll of 342 Japanese aircraft and 15 airfields destroyed or damaged in Tuesday's carrier assaults on the Tokyo area were announced in the earlier communiques.

Both the surface bombardment and the carrier strike were under way when Nimitz announced them—one and a half hours after the ships' guns opened fire.

Adm. Halsey broke radio silence off Hokkaido this morning to report hurling thousands of carrier plane sorties through the fog in his continuing hunt for the vanished Japanese air force.

Recording the exact moment the historic first shell struck Japan, Adm. Nimitz—smiling but calm as ever—said the bombardment began at 12 noon today, Japanese time (11 P. M. Friday, eastern war time) and "is continuing at the present time" (12:30 A. M. Saturday, EWT.)

Among other ships, the bombardment group under R. Adm. Shafroth included the battleships Massachusetts, Indiana and

When the U. S. Third Fleet turned the fury of its guns on Japan today it was the first time the home soil of Japan had been struck by a hostile shell since American, British, Dutch and French warships on Sept. 5, 1864, broke the back of the anti-foreign movement by bombarding the forts of Shimonoseki at the entrance to the inland sea.

29 Admirals Shifted by U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Secretary Forrestal announced today assignment of V. Adm. Marc Mitscher, famed Pacific carrier task force commander, as deputy chief of naval operations for air. He succeeds V. Adm. Aubrey W. Fitch, who will become superintendent of the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

At the same time Forrestal announced assignment of Vice Adm. John H. Towers, now deputy commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet, as commander of the Second Carrier Task Force, of the Pacific Third Fleet, relieving Vice Adm. John S. McCain.

Rear Adm. Frederick C. Sherman, now commander of a carrier division in the Pacific, will succeed Vice Adm. Mitscher as commander of the First Carrier Task Force.

These changes led a list of shifts of duty involving 29 flag officers, which Secretary Forrestal told a news conference was not a "shakeup."

He explained that such changes occur from time to time and by coincidence these occurred together, but they had no other significance.

Adm. Henry K. Hewitt, now a member of the Navy General Board, was ordered to relieve Adm. Harold R. Stark as commander of Naval forces in Europe.

Upon his return to the United States, Adm. Stark will be placed on inactive duty, having passed statutory retirement age.

Rear Admiral John R. Beardall, now superintendent of the Naval Academy, will relieve Rear Admiral Howard F. Kingman, as commandant of the 15th Naval

Aussies Routing Japs on Borneo

MANILA, July 14 (AP)—An Australian surge through collapsing Japanese resistance to within nine miles of the Sambodja oil fields on East Borneo and a fleet-covered American amphibious landing in southern Mindanao of the Philippines were reported today.

To speed the cleanup of invaded Mindanao, elements of the U. S. 24th division were landed Thursday under bombarding guns of the Seventh fleet in Sarangani bay. The infantrymen, also covered by Marine aircraft, were unopposed as they moved inland in pursuit of enemy forces retreating in that sector.

Watches Warships Pour Shells Into Jap Homeland

By JAMES LINDSLEY

ABOARD BATTLESHIP SOUHT DAKOTA IN SIGHT OF JAPAN, July 14 (AP)—High explosives, bearing made-in-America stamp, whistled for two hours from flaming muzzles of big naval guns into the great Jap iron works at Kamaishi in northern Honshu today.

It was my privilege to watch this bombardment of Japan for the first time in this war—a bombardment which caused sky-reaching explosions and started roaring fires which blanketed the area with smoke.

A squadron of three battleships, two heavy cruisers and numerous destroyers was in plain sight of Japan for three hours before the bombardment started and for sometime afterward.

For two hours the squadron swaggered back and forth within rifle shot of Honshu, drawing only most meager and apparently timid opposition.

It was as if you strutted back and forth on some enemy's front porch, kicked in his front door, messed up his parlor and asked him what he proposed to do about it.

The Japanese chose to do very little about it.

As this is written there is no report of damage to American vessels in this action, one of the most spectacular of the Pacific war.

Kamaishi is 275 miles north of Tokyo. It has a pre-war population of about 42,000, but an influx of workers to the steel mills is believed to have swelled it to nearly twice that.

The Imperial Iron & Steel Works, prime target of the bombarding warships, is one of the most important in the whole Japanese empire.

Gen. Chennault Quits in China

By CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH

KUNMING, CHINA, July 14 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Chennault is leaving China and retiring from the U. S. Army. He made this announcement today, two days after the appointment of Lt. Gen. George Stratemeyer as commander of all U. S. air forces in China.

Chennault, who is 55, has been commander of the U. S. 14th Air Force and before that directed China's "Flying Tigers" against the Japanese.

Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of all U. S. forces in the Chinese theater, announced acceptance of Chennault's resignation.

Chennault called in correspondents to disclose his decision. He said he would not continue as commander of the 14th Air Force although Wedemeyer, in announcing Stratemeyer's appointment Thursday, had said that Chennault would retain his command.

Chennault once before retired from the U. S. Army, in 1936, because of disability. He came to China in 1937 and started working for the Chiang Kai-shek government. He was recalled to active U. S. duty in 1942.

When he arrived in China Chennault already was thinking in terms of war in the Pacific involving Japan and the United States.

Japan opened hostilities against China just four days after Chennault's arrival and he found himself working without planes and training inexperienced Chinese youths.

The plan whereby American civilian aviation personnel were invited by the Chinese government to become a part of China's air force was the keystone of Chennault's program to revitalize the Chinese Air Force.

A Chinese official once said that "Chennault has endeared himself to China more than any other foreigner since Marco Polo, 500 years ago."

When he was recalled to duty in the U. S. Army he wan given the temporary rank of colonel with permission to continue his activities and relationship with the Chinese government.

Chennault is known as one of the greatest of precision fliers. He was leader of "three men on a flying trapeze," a feature of many air shows during the early 1930's. Their favorite trick was to tie their planes together with string, take off, go through intricate maneuvers and land without having broken the string.

Blind Boy Prodigy Greeted by Mayor

Blind Jimmy Osborn, the 9-year-old British piano prodigy, arrived from New York today aboard an American Airliner, looking forward eagerly to the education at the Perkins Institution for the Blind which his foster fathers of the Ninth Air Force have arranged for him.

"I'm glad to see you," he said brightly to Mayor Kerrigan as he shook his hand.

Still thrilled by the performance of "Oklahoma" which he heard last night in New York, Jimmy was still boy enough to be saddened when he learned there was no ice cream for the soda the mayor ordered for him at the airport restaurant.

"I'd still like some ice cream," he confided to the Mayor and the latter arranged to have a quart delivered to him at Perkins Institution.

Leaving the Airport, Jimmy was in the front seat of the Mayor's auto. He quickly located and turned on the radio, then discovered a siren, which he kept going all the way to City Hall.

"You'll get us arrested, Jimmy," the mayor protested smilingly.

"If we do, I'll plead not guilty," Jimmy answered.

He settled for two milk shakes.

Jimmy flew to Boston with one of his foster fathers, Capt. John F. O'Connell, Ninth Air Force public relations officer from Holyoke, and the latter's sister, Gertrude, 24.

"He's a fine traveler and very polite," said Ruth Walton, airliner stewardess.

Waiting to greet him with the mayor were Dr. Gabriel Farrell, director of the Perkins Institute; Allen W. Sherman, headmaster; Reps. Perlie Dyer Chase, Back Bay, and John A. Powers, South Boston, and a throng of airport employes and civilians.

Dr. Farrell said Jimmy would be guest at his country home for about a week to allow the furore over his arrival to settle. He will spend the rest of the summer at other homes and start his formal musical and academic education Sept. 12.

At the institution he will be under the direct supervision of Edward G. Jenkins, a talented blind musician.

"I know I have a lot to learn," Jimmy said. "In addition to the school work, I want to learn to walk better and to keep my head up.

"I know I'm going to like it here, but I'll feel still better when my mom and pop and sister can come over."

The British youngster will start his American life in Boston with a $3200 jackpot raised for him by the boys of the Ninth Air Force who fell under his spell when they heard him play the piano in England.

One of Jimmy's first acts when he got settled in his New York hotel room was to seek out a piano.

Finding one in a deserted ballroom of the hotel, Jimmy's small pudgy fingers flew over the keyboard as he played and sang in a husky highly imitative monotone the familiar signature songs, "Hinky Dinky Doo" and "Umbriago," made famous by his idol, Jimmy Durante.

Jimmy was dressed in typical British school boy fashion, blue serge suit, matching Eton cap, and knee length grey wool stockings knit by his mother's loving fingers. He is large for his nine years.

On his lapels and the breast of his jacket, Jimmy wears his proudest possessions, presented by "the gang of my group," as he calls his American flying friends. They include the silver air corps wings, the European theater and American theater ribbons, complete with battle stars, and the Presidential citation.

If Jimmy Durante is his idol, Alec Templeton is his ideal. Templeton heard the lad in Europe and cabled him to come to America to appear with him in concert.

WELCOME TO BOSTON—Blind Jimmy Osborn, 9-year-old British piano prodigy and adopted son of the U. S. Ninth Air Force, is due here today to begin his studies at Perkins Institution for the Blind. Lynn War Workers Demand More Meat

Speaking for 25,000 members in three Lynn General Electric Co. plants, the executive committee of the Radio, Machine and Electrical Workers Union sent telegrams today to the Massachusetts Congressional delegation and the War Food Administration, demanding more meat.

The telegrams protested that war workers in the three plants were unable to obtain sufficient meat to maintain working energy and demanded action instead of promises to remedy the situation.

The committee voted on the action after a protest meeting last night in which speakers criticised "Washington bungling" in the food supply and distribution situation.

"There are altogether too many regulations and not enough meat," Mayor Arthur J. Frawley told the meeting. "It's a shame that you have to know someone to get even a pound of meat. It's all the fault of bungling in Washington."

County Comr. C. F. Nelson Pratt declared that 42 of 45 patients at the Essex County Sanitarium were losing weight because they were unable to obtain sufficient supplies of food for a balanced diet.

William Conron, regional OPA meat control officer, promised an investigation of the situation after he pointed out that there should be no shortage of meat, if the Lynn area was receiving the quota which should come there.

John Sullivan, of Gov. Tobin's war food committee, said that reduction of Army "set asides" should make meat more plentiful in a short time.

Truman Saluted By British Fleet

By ROBERT G. NIXON

WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN IN THE ENGLISH CHANNEL, July 14 (INS)—The British fleet gave a royal welcome today to President Truman as the flotilla taking the Chief Executive to the Big Three conference cruised through British waters off southern England.

A British fleet escort of seven warships, led by the Cruiser Birmingham, met the American cruisers Augusta and Philadelphia early this morning off Portsmouth, historic British naval base.

Appropriate honors were exchanged and the two American warships proceeded along the southern coast of England with the Birmingham leading the way and three trim British destroyers lined up in columns on each side of the presidential task force.

Two floating mines that had broken from their moorings were sighted.

President Truman, wearinig a grey tweed cap and an olive drab weather coat, stood in a 40-milimeter antiaircraft gun mount on the bridge deck of the Augusta to receive the salute from the British warships.

The President was up at 6:15 a. m. after retiring about midnight.

The first sighting of English soil was made shortly after 8 o'clocw last night when the task force raised the Scilly Islands, a few miles west of Land's End.

The six sleek British destroyers, still wearing the dazzle camourflage painting of wartime — pastel greens and sky blues splotched with white and black—bore down on the Augusta and Philadelphia in line, the cruiser Birmingham following.

The destroyers approached the American task force and made a smart turn to starboard to take up their escort positions.

Bugles sounded on the ships of both task forces as the honors were exchanged and the crews stood at attention "at quarters" facing the passing ships.

The President received the salute, acknowledging it with his cap held over his heart.

The British fleet units were to escort the United States task force through British waters, departing with another rendering of honors in the late afternoon, as the Augusta and Philadelphia proceeded on to Antwerp.

From there the President will motor to Brussels, then fly to Potsdam for the opening of the "Big Three" conference Monday.

Senate Approval Of Port Bill Seen

Final enactment of the $15,000,000 Boston Port Authority Bill by the Senate on Monday, following its overwhelming passage by the House with a vote of 198 to 14, was predicted today after the legislature adjourned for the week-end.

The measure, providing $5,000,000 for immediate use by the new Port Authority and $10,000,000 to be available next year, will be sent to Gov. Tobin for his signature immediately after Senate enactment.

A spiritless effort in the House to defeat the measure subsided when a roll call vote was called for, many members shifting their votes to pile up the required two-thirds majority for enactment.

Earlier, the Senate had accepted on voice vote the conference committee report permitting the expenditure of $5,000,000 this year and requiring legislative approval of plans and leases before the $10,000,000 balance can be used.

Under an emergency preamble, the bill will enable the Governor to make his appointments to the new Port Authority next week.

The 14 House members who voted against the bond issue were: Richard J. Allen, Brookline; Albert F. Bigelow, Brookline; Daniel Casey, Pittsfield; Robert G. Connolly, Boston; Joseph W. Dooley, Taunton; Anthony R. Doyle, Worcester; John F. Foster, Somerville; J. Philip Howard, Westminster; Ernest A. Johnson, Worcester; Burton E. Loring, Worcester; Paul A. McCarthy, Somerville; Clarence F. Telford, Plainville; Stanislaus G. Wondolowski, Worcester, and Albert E. Wood, Easton.

LONDON, July 14 (INS)—A Spanish Bill of Rights proclaiming state respect for the dignity, integrity and liberty of men was made public today amid reports that Gen. Francisco Franco had turned his government over to a military junta.

The provisions add that all Spaniards shall have equal protection, and that none shall be prosecuted for religious beliefs practised in private, but that no "external manifestation of any religion other than Roman Catholicism is allowed."

16-Pt. Butter, Less Sugar Seen for End of Year

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—An ei ght-point cut in butter values and sharp reduction in civilian sugar supplies during the l ast three months of the year appeared possibilities today.

The chief of OPA's dairy products branch, Eugene Brockenbrough, disclosed last night a trade proposal to lower butter ration values to 16 points a pound is being given "very careful consideration."

The butter committee of the New York Mercantile Exchange recommended the eight-point reduction to prevent spoilage. OPA previously has said a "slight" cut in butter ration values will be made July 29.

Agriculture Department officials reported the civilian supply of sugar during the final quarter of the year may be pared 25 per cent.

The civilian supply for the year is estimated at 5,100,000 tons—about 3,000,000 tons short of potential demand. Approximately 2,800,000 tons were purchased in the first six months and 1,380,000 tons have been allocated for the current quarter.

This will leave less than 1,000,000 tons for the final quarter unless additional supplies can be found—and food officials say there's little prospect of that.

The civilian allotment includes supplies for bakers, hotels, restaurants, soft drink and candy manufacturers and other industrial users.

NATALE "CHRIS" PIVELLO
A Perfect Fit

Stowaway Tired Of Giddy Whirl, To Rest Sunday

The holiday tempo of 9-year-old Natale "Chris" Piavallo's life since arriving in Boston after being smuggled aboard a transport by admiring GIs who "adopted" him slowed to a walk today and he is looking forward to a quiet week-end without photographers, interviewes or shopping trips.

Completely tired after days of the giddy whirl, the little Italian orphan will do nothing more strenuous than try out his new roller skates again. Purchased yesterday, the skates have given him a few tumbles already, but he said he would keep at it until they were mastered.

While Chris is waiting for immigration officials to straighten out the legal snarls that followed his unusual entry into the country as a stowaway earlier this week, more than 50 families have offered to adopt him.

On a shopping tour in downtown Boston, Chris collected just about everything his heart desired. He got a haircut, a shoe shine, a new sports outfit, ice cream, roller skates, a bugle, a model airplane, and had a ride in a swan boat.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I have filed application under the emergency maternity and infant care program and have been accepted. Now my husband has been commissioned. Does this cancel my approved application? L. M., Newton.

A—No, it doesn't. As long as your husband held a grade of private, private first class, corporal or sergeant at the time your application was filed, you are eligible for the hospitalization under that plan, and your baby is entitled to the pediatric care for the first year.

Q—May an honorably discharged veterar who is not able to work at the present time draw unemployment insurance until he is well enough to take a job?—Ex-Marine, Boston.

A—No, he cannot draw unemployment insurance. It is payable only to those who are able to work and are available for a position.

Q—Does the point system apply to the Hawaiian Dept. of the U. S. Army? This soldier has been in service since 1935. P. J. McG., Bangor.

A—Yes, he is eligible to apply for discharge under point system, according to Army officials.

Q—I am a recently discharged serviceman and would like to know how long I may wear my uniform after discharge. G. N. S., Portland, Me.

A—You are entitled to wear your uniform from the place where you received your discharge to your home. You may also wear it at military ceremonies in the future.

Q—Will you please tell me where to send my baby's birth certificate to get the increase in my Family Allowance check? M. M., Watertown.

A—Send it to the office from which your checks are issued, giving your husband's full name, service number and address.

Q—My Family Allowance was discontinued a few months ago because of the amount of my earnings. My husband has died recently. Will I be able to get the Family Allowance again now? C. D., Manchester, N. H.

A—If the death of your husband has caused an increased degree of dependency upon the soldier, you may have your case reviewed. If your expenses and earnings are the same as when payment was discontinued, the fact of your husband's death would not make you eligible for payment.

Q—I will soon be going into service. Can I make an allotment of my pay to a commercial insurance company for payment of my insurance?

A—A serviceman may authorize a Class E allotment payable to a commercial insurance company for payment of his premiums.

Processes Own ETO Brother

FT. DEVENS, July 14 — You meet a lot of Pvt. John Smiths when you're serving in the overseas reception center here helping to process other returned veterans. But sometimes that pays dividends.

It did for Sgt. Norman "Whitey" Smith, of Medford, a 32nd Division veteran of the New Guinea campaign, assigned to the reception center here more than a year ago.

That was the way he met his brother, Pvt. John Smith, whom he hadn't seen for seven years since John enlisted in the Army. John returned from the ETO after three years there in the Army Air Forces.

There's Still Time to Plant Lettuce, Cabbage and Corn

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head, Vegetable Gardening Department, Norfolk County Agriculture School, and Director of the Boston Record-American-Advertiser garden on the Common.

Many gardeners are confronted with the question of what to do for vegetables between the harvesting of early crops and the maturing of later crops. Unless good planning has been made, there is bound to be a gap in production.

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

"Let me warn you, Jason. You are no longer indispensable!"

For instance, early lettuce is gone and there are few salad crops available for the warm weather ahead. If you failed to make the second planting of beets, that crop will also be short.

There is still time to plant some of these quick-growing crops and have good variety.

If your lettuce supply is running out, sow a short row of Oak Leaf or Grand Rapids now. Keep it growing fast and the quality will be good. This loose-leaf lettuce is never as crisp as the iceberg types, but according to the food experts it has higher vitamin content.

Another crop that will run out is cabbage. It is now time to plant late cabbage. Buy good plants and set out some Golden Acre and some Danish. The Golden Acre will mature ahead of the Danish.

Growers of Hubbard Squash are now experiencing the first attacks of the squash vine borer. This insect is already inside the stem and plants are beginning to wilt. Look for the damage at the base of the plant, and if you notice where they have entered the stem it is possible to split the stem carefully with a sharp knife and kill or remove the borer. The best insurance for the small grower, however, is to cover the first node with soil and hope that they will root in. If your plants are free of borers keep dusting for another two weeks with rotenone to prevent a late attack.

Tomorrow is the dead-line on corn. After that it will not mature, or if it does the flavor is not good. Corn that matures in late September never seems to have the sugar content of earlier pickings.

Dive-Bombing Birds Still Attack Man and His Dog

CHICAGO, July 14 (AP)—The two big night birds which have been making dive bomb attacks on Robert Wiersig and his dog struck again last night and completely ignored pieces of meat Wiersig had placed in rat traps.

The birds, which Wiersig believes are hawks, made four attacks on him and his cocker spaniel last night and didn't go near the four big traps.

"I hope they break their necks," said Wiersig, a sheet metal contractor. "I'm a physical wreck. I haven't been able to work for three days. All I can think about is those birds diving at me. They sound like a bus stripping its gears."

"When I catch those birds I'm going to have a fine hawk dinner," Wiersib said. "First, however, I'm going to christen the biggest one. I'll name him after Poe's raven. I'll call him 'Nevermore'."

He walked over and introduced himself, saying he could swear he had met her before.

"That's very interesting," she said. "I'm Mrs. Dan Sharp, your sister, from Livingston, Mont. This is my husband, Capt. Sharp."

They hadn't seen each other for nine years.

South Dakota; heavy cruisers Chicago and Quincy, and destroyers Southerland, Heerman, Erben and Black.

Each of the battleships has nine 16-inch guns, hurling shells weighing over a ton, plus secondary five-inch batteries firing 50-pound projectiles. The heavy cruisers are armed with nine eight-inch guns apiece, plus five-inch secondary turrets.

Nimitz' quick announcement of the bombardment and identification of some of the biggest ships manifestsed a supreme disregard of enemy strength, as though he were saying:

"Here we are. Do you want to fight?"

One area pounded by the carrier planes today was the strait separating Hokkaido and Honshu, across which coal flows from Hokkaido to the Kaimishi steel mills —targets of the ships' guns.

'Decision' Hit At Loew's Soon

"Valley of Decision," nearing its 10th week at Radio City Music Hall, has chalked up more than a million in attendance. Only two other MGM pictures, "Random Harvest" and "Mrs. Miniver," have exceedec eight weeks at the mammoth Manhattan picture house.

Greer Garson starred in all three, which gives her something of a box-office record. "Valley of Decision," in which Gregory Peck is co-starred with Miss Garson, is soon to be seen here on Loew's twin screens.

NO PLACE FOR POLITICS

RETIREMENT of Justice Owen J. Roberts from the Supreme Court of the United States calls to public attention the total and undesirable lack of balance in that tribunal caused by an unprecedented series of partisan and sometimes crudely political appointments within a period of only six years.

It also emphasizes the peculiar solemnity of President Harry S. Truman's duty in filling the vacancy that has been created.

Of the eight remaining justices, all were appointed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt after 1937—all except one, Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone, whom Mr. Roosevelt promoted.

Of these eight justices, all are New Dealers, except one—Chief Justice Stone.

And the chief justice himself is eligible for retirement after 20 years of continuous service on the supreme bench.

If President Truman yields to the demands of Democratic politicians and left-wing agitators and follows President Roosevelt's example, the Supreme Court will be composed of eight Democrats and one Republican when the place of Justice Roberts is filled, and will consist solely of Democrats if and when Chief Justice Stone withdraws.

The obvious obligation resting upon all Presidents is to keep the Supreme Court as nearly non-partisan as possible.

To this end, Democratic Presidents have appointed Republicans to the Supreme bench, and Republicans have appointed Democrats.

All of the present associate justices are young men, or relatively so: Justice Frankfurter, the eldest of them, is only 62.

Consequently, there is little likelihood that President Truman will be called upon to "reconstruct" the entire court, as President Roosevelt was enabled to do.

But surely Mr. Truman should not make the gross imbalance worse than it now is.

In fact, as a precept to equity and justice, no Democrat should even be considered for appointment to the Supreme Court until at least four of the nine members are Republicans.

Furthermore, the next two Supreme Court justices chosen should be found in the unrepresented West—one in the area between the Mississippi and the Rockies, the other on the highly populated and highly developed Pacific Coast.

Even we New Englanders must concede that there is no reason why the nation's court of last resort should be an Eastern monopoly.

President Truman has done remarkably well in establishing a just geographical apportionment in his Cabinet selections to date.

The same policy, along bipartisan lines, respecting the Supreme Court would be wise and patriotic statesmanship.

GRATITUDE

IT IS a pleasure always for us to assist in patriotic services, especially in those designed to hasten the end of the war and speed victory. The following letter, which we proudly print, is therefore a welcome addition to our files:

EDITOR, BOSTON AMERICAN:

From January through June of this year, New England led the nation in supplying "intelligence girls" for confidential office work with our Signal Corps installation at Arlington, Va. Of this record group, more than two-thirds were recruited in the Greater Boston area.

Considering the emergency personal situation that confronted our Agency during that period, the local leadership played a really large part in helping the war effort—another patriotic victory on the home front which Greater Boston can post alongside its magnificent total effort.

We wish to extend our personal appreciation, and also on behalf of our Agency, for the splendid co-operation in presenting our needs to the public which has been given by your newspaper.

Ours is a continuing need for personnel, yet we are entirely confident that the leadership record already established in this community will be continued, and we wish to call time out just briefly to say, most sincerely, "Thank you."

Field flowers! The garden eclipse you, 'tis true,
Yet wild ones of nature, I dote upon you,
For you take me back to summers of old,
When earth teemed around me with wondrous delight,
And daisies and buttercups gladdened my sight
Like treasures of silver and gold. —CAMPBELL.

I AM NOT a flower expert. I only know what I like. It may be as the author of the above states that garden flowers are more beautiful than wild flowers. Nevertheless, I would rather see a field of wild-flowers than a garden, no matter how beautiful that garden might be. . . Women between the ages of 25 and 35 have the most difficulty in finding a mate. So states a student of the matrimonial situation. Of course, this refers to women who have never married. A widow between the ages of 25 and 35 rarely has much trouble getting a husband. This is particularly true at this time. Bachelors who have been away with the armed forces have been showing a marked weakness for young widows as mates. What the expert aforementioned says about the difficulties of the aforementioned age group, other than widows, seems to be confirmed by communications received by this department. We don't know what we can do to aid these young women to acquire a "little blue heaven" but, of course, our Mules & Men department is always at their service.

INVENTION: Now an inventive genius has originated an "ash-retaining, fireproof cigaret and cigar smoker." The use of this smoker, the inventor claims, will do away with smokers tossing ashes on rugs and in saucers. Will also prevent fire being started by smokers who go to sleep. In addition that it will decrease the number of sloppy looking lipstick-smeared cigaret butts that are tossed aside by careless females.

PLEASE NOTE: A couple of weeks ago some thieves in Missouri not only took away the entire contents of a house but but also stole the watch dog. Now California crooks have topped that. In San Diego, these mean criminals stole a house and lot. The owners returned to find their house gone and also all the topsoil that had made their piece of the good earth valuable. Imagine coming home some dark night as happy as W. C. Fields and having your wife say as she fails to hear the lock click: "Can't you find the keys, darling?" And having to answer: "Yes, I have the keys but I can't find the house."

HORSES & WOMEN: "Tiny" Naylor, California restaurant man has acquired a racing stable. A notable feature of the colors of Mr. Naylor is the "Tiny" spelled out on the back of the silks worn by the rider. The Jockey Club, which assigns colors, appears to be getting broad-minded. Perhaps we may soon see spelled out on a jockey's back the word "Toots" and be informed it is the nickname of the feminine owner. Still, I hope that never happens. If, in the post parade, my good friend Herbert Bayard Swope saw following the light blue and brown cap of the Whitney stable a jockey with "Toots" written on his back he would develop one of the highest blood pressures in the history of the turf.

PARTIES: A young matron of Boston says everything indicates that husbands "are more jealous and less broadminded than wives." She points out that husbands continually attend stag parties and that the wives do not complain if at these parties the entertainment consists of some beautiful female singers and dancers. Recently this young matron and some of her married women friends decided to have an all feminine party insofar as the guests were concerned but made arrangements to have some male singers and dancers as entertainers and dancing partners. However, they never did have the party. When their husbands heard of the plans they frowned on the affair and said they would not permit it. This is very interesting. Incidentally, I have heard of a group of married women who actually held such a party. However, in order that their husbands wouldn't worry too much, these young women invited their mothers-in-law as chaperons.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q. Isn't it true the father determines the sex of a child? A. I understand such is the case but it is a circumstance over which he has no control. So if you have four sons and no daughters but have always wanted a daughter don't blame papa. Q. Are you familiar with the career of a sports figure named "Dusty" Rhoades? A. There was a Major League pitcher of that name. Believe he spent most of his career with the St. Louis Browns. However, you may have another man in mind. Most fellows named Rhoades are nicknamed "Dusty" just as those named Carter are nearly always nicknamed "Nick."

WASHINGTON, July 14—Casey Jones, the original old barnstorming pilot, now head of one of the country's largest aviation schools, sincerely hopes that the Treasury Department takes no stock in fortune tellers.

Mme. Perkins

It seems that a venerable crone, who is in the tea leaf-reading business in Newark, N. J., granted an interview to the press recently in which she reviewed her many soothsaying triumphs. She was quoted as saying:

"Fourteen years ago I gave Casey Jones a reading. He wanted to know whether he should close his school, because it wasn't doing so well. I told him he'd make a million dollars with it; that the government would use it. He thought that was the most ridiculous thing he ever heard.

"'If I make a million dollars I'll give you $5000,' he told me. He's made three million, I guess. But when I see him on the street he doesn't even look at me."

MR. JONES issued the following categorical denials:

"(1) I have not made three millions or even one million—and, if Morgenthau doubts this, he can have his tea leaves read and find where I have hidden it.

"(2) I do not snub anyone on the street; even tea leaf-readers.

"(3) What the devil would I be doing in a tea shoppe anyway? You know I hate tea!"

I am prepared to support Mr. Jones in the latter contention. I am sure that if he went into a tea shoppe it was all a ghastly mistake.

That's all right, Casey. You're entirely welcome!

I WAS VERY much interested in accounts of the recent leave-taking of Mme. Perkins from her practically historical association with the Department of Labor. The accounts were most instructive, particularly the disclosure by Mme. Perkins of how she learned to shake hands.

The lady, who for 12 years wore a tricorne skimmer as a sort of official uniform, shook hands with 1800 persons. This is quite a feat—and no cracks about you don't shake hands with your feat—although I once saw King George VI of Britain do better out in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

The next day, however, His Majesty came down with a bum wing and was unable to shake hands all the way through Portage La Prairie, Elbow, Eyebrow, Moose Jaw, and Medicine Hat—which are not names I made up. This was during the royal tour of 1939 when the king got so used to shaking mitts he once had to be restrained from automatically reaching for the outstretched hand of a traffic semaphore.

Mme. Perkins, however, emerged from the ordeal with her hand as good as new. She confided she had learned the secret of paw-preservation from the late Ike Hoover, for many years chief White House usher.

The lady said that Hoover had taught her and other Cabinet members the trick back in 1933 when the New Deal moved in. The secret, as she described it, is this:

She leads for the handclasp, gripping the greeter's hand lightly between knuckles and fingertips. Her palm and wrist are thus saved all strain and the overzealous fellow with the fraternity grip of 100 pounds to the square inch of cuticle is out of the line and heading for the exit before he realizes that the lady had beaten him to the draw.

So you see her 12 years in office were not wasted. She learned to shake hands—even if they wouldn't let her learn much about labor.

NEW YORK, July 14—This is life in a Columnist's letter box or, what the customers are worrying about—besides the newspaper strike!

Pittsburgh, Pa.

DEAR MISS KILGALLEN:

Yesterday I sadly read in your column that my dream boy, Frankie, had gained two pounds.

Dorothy Kilgallen

This indeed was a great shock. To learn that one's idol is slowly losing his appeal is hard to take. Oh, but that's life!

Never again will I applaud or listen to Mr. Sinatra, for in doing so I would show lack of taste. From now on I have vowed to listen to jingles from Der Bingle. No one could ever love a fat man like Frankie will eventually be.

Well, so much for "Chubby" Sinatra. Long live Bing!!!

DEAR DOROTHY:

Recently I read a letter written in your column by a Mr. John Pyle, who made some very nasty remarks about name bands and how they sound. Well, what I could never understand is why people keep knocking down jazz bands.

I like and enjoy all types of music. If name bands really do bother Mr. Pyle, when he goes to see a special picture at one of the Broadway movie houses, why doesn't he wait until the picture comes to a theater where there is no band, or better still let him attend the performance at the opera instead.

Very sincerely,
MR. SAL L. NAVE.

Hamilton Field, Cal.

Miss Kilgallen:

Your recent column on New York has probably elicited much comment from members of the armed forces who've been away from New York for a while. There are but few New Yorkers on this field—only two in my squadron, in fact. However, your column really hit the spot in more ways than one.

I'm not a native New Yorker, having been born in Florida, but I was raised and educated in Queens County and have worked and played in Manhattan continuously for over a decade. Since 1938 I've done quite a bit of traveling both here and abroad. I believe I've hit almost every city in this country over 100,000 population, plus South and Central America, Canada and the Central Pacific. All in all, I'm still in love with New York, believe it or not!

Places like Toffenetti's, Lindy's and Sardi's are old stamping grounds. Many's the "half a date" I've had at the Astor and many's the time I've browsed through the bookstalls on Fourth Avenue.

No doubt you can understand my reactions, and those I'm sure, of every other fellow and gal away from "our town." I've sent the column to my buddy who's a staff sergeant with the 29th Infantry in Germany and hope he gets as much pleasure out of reading it as I did. That's the kind of nostalgia one likes to get—it's the kind of homesickness that makes a man, rather than breaks him.

Thanks, Dorothy Kilgallen—thanks a million from all of us. It won't be too long before we'll be seeing Penn Station, St. Pat's, the Plaza, the Waldorf and the Ritz together. I hope some day to be able to meet you personally and express our appreciation and gratitude to you. Best of luck and God bless you.

Most sincerely,
GERALD E. NISTAL.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, July 14—A very surprising choice, I think, is Carmen Miranda for "Doll Face." Not that she isn't one of our best dancers, and certainly one of our most persuasive personalities, but she is so different from Joan Blondell, who created the role on the stage in "Naked Genius" from which "Doll Face" is taken.

Carmen Miranda

Well, Carmen, who had 13 months' serious illness, has been okayed by Darryl Zanuck. Darryl sent a cable okaying Carmen and William Eythe, who played opposite her. The rest of the supporting players are Perry Como, Martha Stewart and Vivian Blaine. Brynie Foy, who makes good pictures, will produce this (his first big musical) and he has a nice budget of $3,000,000 to spend.

* * *

I REMEMBER when I was young hearing about the Cherry Sisters, who without a whit of talent played 18 weeks at Hammerstein's at the unheard of salary of $1000 a week. The sisters came from Iowa and the last of them died last year. Harry A. Gourein has acquired the film rights to the story of these gals, who were so terrible they were funny. He would like to get the Andrews Sisters, but they have such talent he would have to change the idea completely.

A NICE COMPLIMENT was paid William S. Hart, western hero of the silent era. Bill, who has been a member of the Los Angeles Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for 25 years, has been made permanent honorary president, a title he will hold as long as he lives.

IT WAS BUSY today, but I'm never too busy to talk to such an interesting telephone caller as Mrs. Clayton Johnson, who read a letter she had received from her son, Perry, about my daughter's movie. Perry wrote his mother: "Dorothy McGuire is here on the Riviera in her USO show, 'Dear Ruth.' I don't know when any star has made such an impression. She is the typical American girl we all remember. Mother, be sure to see her in 'The Enchanted Cottage,' a delightful and profoundly moving picture. It has everything, including this charming Miss McGuire. It has been very popular with the men in France wherever it has shown."

MY FRIEND, Fred Sammis (ye ed. of Photoplay Magazine) is in this country after 12,000 miles of special duty with the Coast guard. He writes: "One of my shipmates was Victor Mature, part of the ship's permanent complement. A chief bosun's mate, he was one of the best men on the ship. He completely won the admiration of the captain, officers and his fellow seamen. We had a couple of wonderful times together, one of them at Cristobal and the other in Le Havre." The name of the boat is the USS Admiral H. T. Mayo, and it and the Coast Guard deserve great praise. Consider the "plug" registered, sir, and the mission completed.

WHAT MEMORIES news of the sale of the old Hollywood Hotel brings to us pioneers. In the early days many stars lived there. Now it is to be torn down and a department store built on the prominent Hollywood Boulevard corner. Certainly Hollywood is changing. In 1934 we named our air program "Hollywood Hotel," not after the real hotel but because the name seemed appropriate. During the four years on the radio hundreds of people tried to locate the glamorous "orchid room," believing the broadcast emanated from there, but there never was such a spot. We did celebrate our third anniversary at the real hotel and it was a gala occasion with stars once more walking through the familiar lobby.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Buff Cobb Chapman, the cutie pie recently divorced from Greg Bautzer, was a-dancin' with Peter Lawford at the Troc. Victor Mature, with whom Buff spent every moment, is far away right now; Clark Gable is buying a boat and will spend leisure moments a la Bogart—ain't bad; the new Don Morgan baby is named Darryl Duan Morgan.

LYNN BARI is expecting her baby Sept. 19 and Mrs. Bud Abbott hosted a baby shower for her. Jimmy Dunn, who made 36 hospital appearances in 2 days, has been cited by the Wounded Veterans themselves; Bonita Blare, although much better, is still in the hospital; Hedy Lamarr is reading like mad on the pre-Civil War period for "Strange Woman," which she is producing with Hunt Stromberg; Kay Gorcey, who is marrying Groucho Marx, will probably spend her honeymoon in vaudeville. She leaves with the mad brothers Aug. 14 on 30th.

Boston After Dark

EXCLUSIVE: Motor dories that cost Uncle Sam $2200 can be bought, shortly, for $400 . . . They have 40-horse power motors and seaworthiness . . . Matthew J. Connelly, the Clinton boy who exercises tremendous authority as President Truman's executive secretary, remained in Washington to look after the Administration's affairs while the President and his entourage sailed to meet Stalin and Churchill.

Slot machines are working already in Boston, and there will be more of them soon . . . More "sneakeasies" are due to open, too, so that gentlemen and ladies with an after-one-a-em thirst may slake it . . . The few now functioning are cleaning up . . . Illicit maternity "hospitals" also are doing a landside business.

* * *

WHEN ELAINE JORDAN, the black-haired star songstress of The Mayfair, started singing "Tico" at the supper show, the house erupted into a guffaw which Miss Jordan perhaps was unable to comprehend . . . The explanation was that two large ringside parties connected the lyrics of the song with the name of a horse . . . A nag named "Pio Pico" had upset the dope earlier in the day by blowing the second race when held at the dry odds of 7-10 . . . "Tico, Tico" and "Pio Pico" were similar enough phonetically to touch off a gale of laughter at one table . . . The next table—where a bookmaker also was host—took up the refrain.

WHEN CRITICIZING THE PLACING judges at Suffolk Downs Thursday, this column should have polled them, and reserved putting the match to the fuse until the tally was complete and on the record . . . O. E. Pons, one of the placing judges and an experienced man-around-horses, held out against his mates for many minutes . . . The decision making Kengar no more than the partner in a dead heat with Adviser, instead of the proper winner at 14-1, is still being talked about. It—the decision—stank. We hope that yours truly, a mild fellow and a booster for sports of all sorts (including the Sport of Kings) will not be badgered into analyzing the Kengar-Adviser dead heat decision unto its nth degree. . . . It should be mentioned that the aforesaid Mr. Pons is a total stranger to this department, and that he offered no testimony nor alibi for the track decision in which he was we fear—a futile minority.

* * *

HOW TWO BOSTON legitimate theaters obtained air-conditioning equipment while barracks and military headquarters are sweltering under southwesterly breezes is being microscoped right now—and fireworks may zoom skyward before Fall . . . The Treasury Dept. has been asked to adjudicate a feud between a horseplayer and an executive of the Suffolk Downs mutuels-plant . . . The horseplayer collected a large daily double ($3100 plus) and was asked to give his name for income tax purposes. . . . Relying (the says) on the internal revenue code and its lack of a directive ordering successful gamblers to go on record regarding a "hot," the horse player gave a pseudonym when his name was demanded. . . . At that juncture, an executive of the racetrack intervened and gave the right name . . . The case seems headed for the Federal courts.

* * *

NANTASKET residents are raving about the Chinese cuisine of the Clover Restaurant . . . Ruby Foo, whose Den in Boston's Chinatown is turning them away, missed the boat to Nantasket . . . Ruby had two offers to open a branch near Kenberma . . . The Clover amortized its investment in the first three weeks of the season, according to jubilant reports from its owners . . . Andrew Passero, genial millionaire from Bayonne, N. J., and Mrs. Passero, are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Noyes of Revere.

* * *

MASSACHUSETTS has the most beautiful nightclub in America (in this column's opinion) . . . It is the Magnolia Casino . . . Sammy Eisen is the bandleader, and Frank Fishburn (who once entered to Boston society at the Town Club where the Latin Quarter now stands), is the proprietor . . . with Mr. Eisen's permission (we hope), we would like to criticize his orchestra . . . For Viennese waltzes, yes . . . For modern ballroom dancing, not so forte . . . But the season is young!

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

IF DRESS DESIGNERS of feminine finery have been depressed by drastic shortages and lacks . . . they certainly have kept their sorrows to themselves . . . and are producing clothes that look bright, fresh, Americanly smart and original.

Even though there is no doubt that designers are straining at the L-85 leash . . . yearning to do something already different after three years of the most rigid restrictions ever imposed on an art or an industry . . . they have justified their creative craftsmanship with the most stunning fall fashions in years.

And when the New York Dress Institute opens its mammoth fifth national press week in New York next Monday . . . with big name collections displaying their newest fall wares and trends . . . American designing will be able to take a well-earned bow. Even after a full year of French fashion news percolating in the markets . . . the clothes to be viewed will substantiate a strong declaration of American independence.

And the sole discernible Paris influences to be noted will be Balenciaga's dropped shoulder sleeves which bulge perceptibly in the upper arm area . . . and a few very free adaptations of Lelong's flat folds draping the hips.

Much stronger is the effect of our own events, culture and the treasure troves in our Boston, Metropolitan and Modern museums . . . from which designers have helped themselves graciously and knowingly to smart influences of long ago. But we know for sure that name for name . . . with the 10 or 12 greater Parisian creators . . . the world will continue to match 10 or 12 of our own . . . and American dress designing will continue to grow and grow to full and appreciable adulthood.

RETAIL UNDER $25

American dress designing is no longer an experiment . . . it is now part of the American way of life . . . catering to the dress demands of busy, up-to-the-minute, quick-thinking American women who want clothes that permit freedom of motion . . . and freedom of restraint . . . who revel in the smartness of casual clothes . . . and who demand that "typical" Americana in everything they wear . . . even though the modern and abstract inspirations in clothes hark back to the Egyptian, Greek and American frontier influences.

We've pictured autumn 1945 priority fashions . . . all retailing under $25 . . . which will highlight that opening session of the New York Dress Institute at the Waldorf-Astoria Monday. They embody the newest and smartest trends and represent what the well-dressed girl will wear . . . to work, at play and for street wear. We'll tell you more of the trends and what to watch for in the new fall fashions later.

Smartness Plus

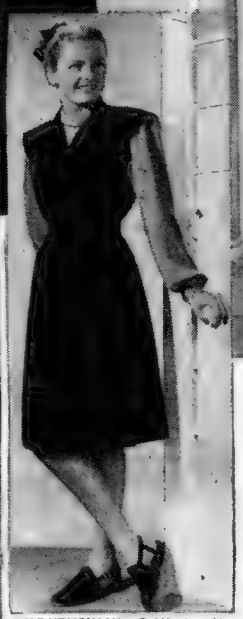
A LADY-IN-WAITING dress can be chic and smart if it is like this one-piece navy blue crepe with chartreuse contrast for the bodice . . . self-tie waistband and latchet closing.

SECRETARIAL smartness is embodied in this brown and white hounds tooth check wool classic dress which every working gal loves so dearly. It features gold buttons, slit hip pockets and a small front pleat on the skirt. Note the deep armholes and the brown simulated alligator leather belt. A classic for comfort.

ROYAL BLUE neck trim and stripe down each shoulder and sleeve accents this black crepe one-piecer.



YOUTHFULLY GAY is this black crepe one-piece dress with turquoise crepe inset sleeves and embroidered arrowhead tips and side shirring on the skirt. This model is the type young figures go for in a big way. Although decidedly on the casual side . . . it boasts of ultra-smart detail.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

Trade Mark

HYDE PARK, Friday—One day last week I went down to Orange, N. J., to see my cousin, Mrs. Henry Parish, who has not been very well. A charming looking woman spoke to me on the tube and, when I got into the train, came and sat beside me.

It was a heart-warming experience, because she said she had long wanted to have an opportunity to talk with me. Once before she had spoken to me in a New York shop, but that was not exactly an opportunity for conversation.

She told me how much my husband's leadership had meant in the past few years, and we talked of the things that must be done by each one of us as individuals if we hope for peace in the world of the future.

SHE FELT as I do, that unless we come to look upon our neighbors in this country, of every race and creed, as brothers—different from ourselves, to be sure, but fundamentally the same kind of human beings—we can never hope to live together in the world peacefully.

We have to learn that we are brothers of one great human family, who make up the people of the world which we know. This is perhaps the great moral change that faces this generation.

As you read your Bible, I think it becomes increasingly clear that there were always good and bad people in every group, and that the lessons taught were not the segregation of groups of people, but the segregation of evil.

That, it seems to me, is the lesson we had better learn all over again. The fight in the world is against evil, and not against people because of their difference in race or creed.

★ ★ ★

ON MY WAY BACK I saw a young Merchant Marine boy, standing on the platform, who looked somewhat familiar, I smiled at him as I always do when I see young men in uniform.

He came up to me and said: "You may not remember me, Mrs. Roosevelt; but I last met you eight years ago at the President's birthday ball in Alexandria, Va."

I remembered the night very well, for it was one of the nights when we had bad weather. It was snowy and icy, and visiting all the birthday balls in and around the District of Columbia was no easy job.

I was not only worried about our getting around, but I wondered what was happening to all of the movie stars who were being taken from place to place. However, apparently the whole evening went off with the usual success which the Washington committee has prided itself on every year.

Dainty Quick Desserts

By MARTHA LEE

WHEN THE MERCURY begins to soar, appetites become capricious. Time was when a nice tapioca pudding, prepared hours in advance of a meal, could be left standing, chilled, in the refrigerator, ready to tempt the most finicky appetite.

We've missed those good tapioca puddings for a long time.

But here's news! A new wartime version of tapioca, made from American-grown grain sorghum, can be purchased now at your grocer's. This new tapioca-like grain sorghum combines deliciously with milk and eggs to make creamy desserts, and also makes an efficient thickener for pies.

Here are two recipes for quick desserts. There are slight differences in these recipes from those for tapioca—so follow the directions carefully.

CREAM PUDDING

1 egg white
1 egg yolk
2 tbsp. sugar
2 cups milk
¼ tbsp. tapioca-like grain sorghum
2 tbsp. sugar
½ tsp. vanilla
⅛ tsp. salt

Beat egg white until foamy throughout; add 2 tbsp. sugar, 1 tbsp. at a time, and continue beating with rotary egg beater until mixture will stand in soft peaks. Set aside.

Mix egg yolk with ½ cup of the milk in saucepan. Add tapioca-like grain sorghum, 2 tbsp. sugar, salt, and remaining milk. Place over low or medium heat and cook until mixture comes to a boil (about 5 minutes), stirring constantly. (Or cook in double boiler over rapidly boiling water 10 to 12 minutes, stirring frequently.)

Remove from heat and stir gradually into beaten egg white. Add vanilla. Cool, stirring once after 15 to 20 minutes. Pour over sliced bananas and broken nut meats. Chill. Serve plain or with cream. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

To double this recipe, use 1 or 2 eggs, 6 tbsp. tapioca-like grain sorghum, and double other ingredients.

This pudding is delicious poured over canned or fresh fruits, served with a sauce, or with nuts.

BANANA NUT CREAM

1 egg white
2 tbsps. sugar
1 egg yolk
2 cups milk
¼ tbsps. tapioca-like grain sorghum
2 tbsp. sugar
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. vanilla
Sliced bananas and nut meats for garnishing

Beat egg white until foamy throughout; add 2 tbsp. sugar, 1 tbsp. at a time, and continue beating with rotary egg beater until mixture will stand in soft peaks. Set aside.

Mix egg yolk with ½ cup of the milk in saucepan. Add tapioca-like grain sorghum, 2 tbsp. sugar, salt, and remaining milk. Place over low or medium heat and cook until mixture comes to a boil (about 5 minutes), stirring constantly. (Or cook in double boiler over rapidly boiling water 10 to 12 minutes, stirring frequently.)

Remove from heat and stir gradually into beaten egg white. Add vanilla. Cool, stirring once after 15 to 20 minutes. Pour over sliced bananas and broken nut meats. Chill. Serve plain or with cream. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

To double this recipe, use 1 or 2 eggs, 6 tbsp. tapioca-like grain sorghum, and double other ingredients.

Top servings of cream pudding with your favorite chocolate, fruit, or caramel sauce.

Final Afterthoughts on Private McGee's Failure

By AUSTEN LAKE

MAY IT PLEASE THE COURT of Public Opinion to permit this apostle of cuckoo-clock wisdom and cracker-barrel philosphy to answer what he deems a gem of sanctimonius superciliousness. This deals with a piece of pious persiflage on the editorial page of an adjoining journal, entitled "Slapper McGee." It's a tearful snuffle on the futility of trying to correct an Army injustice lest by doing so the exonerated soldier go forth immediately and plunge himself further into sin. Its credo is "Never give a guy a second chance for fear he may take it."

Austen Lake

This hunk of unction theorizes, obliquely at least, that Pvt. Joseph McGee, who by this time is a cockle burr under my skin, should never have been absolved from his 2-year, hard-labor, sentence for slapping nine surly, rambunctious Kraut PWs—wholly on their own testimony that they felt "humiliated," in contravention of the Geneva pact. Because then McGee became free to dream up some new nuisances, if he felt pleased to do so. The underlying sentiment is that he should have been kept cozily incarcerated, even if he got a bum rap.

No! I'm not fighting any battles on behalf of McGee's later mischiefs. He's had what is coming to him. The Army has handled him pretty patiently. He hasn't got a whisper of defense. But I like to see my colleagues in this mad, mad newspaper world display elements of common reason, even though I don't always display same myself.

It Still Was a "Bum Deal"

SEZ MY NEIGHBORING LOGICIAN, "The strange case of Slapper McGee seems to contain one moral (Ed—Please note that little word! I'll preach a sermon on "moral" a little later). Things are seldom what they seem. Now it turns out that the Worcester private who achieved what is sometimes called fame . . . is not a hero after all. He has no Purple Heart or certain service ribbons. He has 13 court-martials instead of the lustrous deeds in his record. He now has been awarded a new six months' sentence for absence without leave. Ought the newspapers and the Army to have known all this when McGee's notoriety . . . reached its height? Probably!"

Then the voice of conscience sums up with this drip of saccharine syrup, "His case must stand as a warning against accepting things at their face value in the future."

Well, fold me to your bosom! As the original espouser of McGee's case, I make no apology. None is needed! The court transcript listed TWO minor infractions previous to the Kraut-slap. Careful examination of the court proceedings . . . both by myself and Congressman McCormack's lawyer, gave the aspects of a bum deal. And IT WAS. The kid's pre-Army character in Worcester was reported decent. That the soldier is later revealed to have gone haywire, following conviction on the Kraut bungle, is lamentable. My own first inkling that there was a psycho aspect, came when he gave the press a sensational yarn about medals and a pillbox assault. It had a strong piscatorial aroma. Later when his itchy feet began wandering McGee off the reservation, I felt depressed and chagrined. Not because it spoiled a good newspaper feature. But because I knew it would be difficult to arouse public opinion to espouse any other instances where an occasional soldier might have been victim of extreme, harsh penalties by a legally inexperienced Army court.

This is no attack on the Army's court-martial system or its overall handling of Army trials. I have examined many of its court transcripts from categories of "intended rape" to "willful disobedience," embracing sentences from five to 40 years and they're 99 44/100 per cent solid. I hail the grand job the Army has done in coordinating and screening 10,000,000 officers and soldiers, so lately civilian neophytes.

Much of This Material Is Salvageable

MY INTEREST IN McGEE and his prototypes is this! Human nature is variable! Every man, however tough or sensitive, has his cracking point. Many of the "susceptibles" in the latter class, would have lived tranquil lives as docile husbands or provident fathers or tractable sons—if war had not come and national necessity had not snatched them from their quiet normal grooves.

But war DID come and the nation's need tweezed them into the Army with its violent emotional dislocations and pressures. In some cases spiritual fissures in their characters split open and revealed unsuspected incipient flaws. Under abnormal stress some of these low-resistance types cracked, not enough to be labelled neurasthenics, but enough to be branded "miscreant." I have seen enough of such good-men-gone-wrong in this war and the last, to feel that society, whether the Army or our civil masses, holds a moral responsibility toward this group.

To the best of its knowledge, equipment and ability the Army has assumed much of this liability. It tries to "rehabilitate" misbehaved men in various education and disciplinary centers. It has succeeded in restoring more than half of the 31,131 soldiers sentenced by General Courts to long terms. But the Army, where discipline is the paramount virtue, has a far different measure of miscreancy and a vastly harsher scale of penalties for misconduct than civil society. Many of those five and ten years Army sentences would merely draw a suspended sentence from district judges. And usually those Army sentences are decided by officers with no vestige of legal training.

My concern is with such human material as is salvageable, in the trust that as many of these low-resistance victims of evil circumstance may be returned to their normal folkways after war as is possible. That's all! I'll continue to utter low moans and shrill screams where research, as convincing as that on the Pvt. McGee court transcript, shows that a soldier, sailor or marine got kicked by a kangaroo. Then if any guy, once salvaged, curdles and goes sour that's just as tragic as the mournful denouement of Pvt. McGee.

Cronin of Sox, Retires

Manager Joe Cronin of the Red Sox put himself on the inactive list until further notice in order to make room on the roster for Lou Finney, veteran outfielder, it was announced by General Manager Eddie Collins today.

This means that the skipper, who has been on the shelf since mid-April as a result of a leg fracture, couldn't possibly return to action for 30 days.

If he's in shape and in the mood to play again after another month, he can reinstate himself on the active list by getting rid of one of his hired hands.

With a right-hander performing for the Tigers in the person of Les Mueller, Manager Cronin benched Tommy McBride and Leon Culberson and sent Metkovich to center and Johnny Lazor to right field as the Tigers and Red Sox met in the third and final game of the series at the Fens this afternoon.

Tobin was at third and Lake at short, Skeeter Newsome was at second base.

The Braves said today they had acquired right-handed pitcher Bill Lee from the Philadelphia National League Club on waivers.

Bill Lee won 10 and lost 11 for the Phillies last season. He is 35 years of age and was an outstanding hurler for the Cubs before he was sold down the river to the Phillies.

Dave Ferriss Proves He Is Rookie of the Year

By JACK CONWAY

DAVE FERRISS has won in the most convincing style the right to be rated as the rookie of the year . . . Once more he proved he is not a Morning Glory when he scored his 15th victory of the year by defeating the Detroit Tigers.

Dave Ferriss

Jim Wilson and Ferriss have given Detroit's pennant hopes a jolt . . . When Hank Greenberg returned to the Tigers' lineup, it looked as if Detroit was a cinch to win the American League flag . . . Greenberg while batting well, has gathered baseball rust, and this is evident when he is fielding and running the bases . . . It will take another month of hard training for Hank to get into top condition.

When the Sox get top pitching, they look as good as any club in the league . . . Ferriss is a cinch to win 20 games this season, and he may surpass the 25 win mark . . . I do not believe anyone will question his right to be hailed as the rookie of the year.

Eddie Lake, who took over Skeeter Newsome's duties at shortstop, has developed a lusty wallop when at bat . . . He came through with his seventh home run of the year, a smash over the left field fence, to help Ferriss make it 15 in a row.

Bigger Suffolk Fields

THERE WILL be large fields in most of the eight races at Suffolk Downs this afternoon . . . The $5000 added Paul Revere Handicap heads an attractive card arranged by Racing Secretary Charley McLennan . . . When the lan was placed on the shipment of race horses, Suffolk Downs was in the fortunate position of having its barns filled with 1100 thoroughbreds.

It was possible that some of these horses might have been shipped to other meetings if the ODT had not issued its ban . . . All of the horses are at the East Boston track, and, with the 1945 future of racing uncertain, horsemen are eager to get their thoroughbreds into action . . . This should make the task of Racing Secretary McLennan easier.

There have not been as many claims of horses during the past two days of racing . . . This is to be expected as horsemen do not wish to find themselves with a barn filled with horses and no place to race them . . . It is also believed that the shipping ban will keep the price of yerlings at reasonable figures . . . There has been a great deal of inflation in the price of horses.

Solving Maid Problem

A WINNING handicapper is the best solution for the maid problem . . . Mrs. Allan Wilson of Newton, wife of the president of Suffolk Downs, applied to a local agency for a maid who are as difficult to secure as a .400 hitter . . . Two maids sought the position much to the surprise of the head of the agency . . . Allan Wilson was in the company of Mrs. Wilson when she interviewed the maids.

"We would like to work for you, Mr. Wilson," said one of the girls, "because you are a race track handicapper and can give us some tips. We know Dave Wilson is the champion handicapper."

Allan Wilson explained they were confusing him with Dave Wilson, handicapper for the Green Sports Special. Mrs. Wilson still hopes one of the maids will work for her, and regrets her husband is not a champion handicapper as well as president of Suffolk Downs.

AL CAROLY will promote weekly boxing shows at West Springfield during the summer . . . Gus Meil, Canadian lightweight, and Mario Tores of New York will top his bill on Monday night . . . Caroly promotes boxing at West Palm Beach, Fla., during the winter months . . . Proper matchmaking at the small clubs will develop the needed talent for Boston . . . Coogie McFarland is associated with Caroly's publicity department and he will handle Boston press releases.

Random Shots at Target

Eddie Davis, who was with Russ Murray's Raynham dog track before entering the Navy, is back from the South Pacific where he saw action during recent invasions . . . I met Eddie at Suffolk Downs where he was trying to pick a few winners.

Lou Smith has been at Suffolk Downs each afternoon talking with horsemen in regard to the three week Rockingham Park meeting that opens on Aug. 13 . . . Some of the horsemen have their private vans and so can ship their thoroughbreds over the road to Salem, N. H. . . . Other horsemen have assured Lou that if necessary, they will walk their horses to Rockingham Park.

Bob Frend's seven assistant starters, expert horsemen, have volunteered to aid in walking horses to New Hampshire . . . Servicemen, who marched hundreds of miles while overseas, some of whom have had experience with horses, are anxious to join in the parade of thoroughbreds.

Blows Up

While operating with other units of the British fleet 200 miles west of Alexandria, Egypt, in November, 1941, the battleship HMS Barham was attacked by a Nazi sub which sent a torpedo crashing into a vital part of the ship, causing it to explode and sink within four minutes with the loss of 859 officers and men.
